Stage and Screen.

AT THE LASSALLE.

Few Saturday Evening Post stories have been so widely read as Basil King's, "The City of Comrades," which has taken screen form and which is presented at the LaSalle theater today. It is a story that is thoroughly modern, a story pulsating with problems of the hour. It rides to the crest of the wave of popular approval on the slogan, "a man may be down, but he's never out." Tom Moore, already a popular screen star will add to his fame through his impersonation of the hero role in this remarkable story of man's regeneration, and what can be accomplished through love and companionship. Seena Owen and Otto Hoffman have leading supporting roles.

Tomorrow, "When a Woman Strikes," is the dramatic offering.

AT THE CASTLE.

"The Career of Katherine Bush," is the title of today's picture at the Castle, which stars clever and beautiful Catherine Calvert, whose husband was the late Paul Armstrong. The story is written along unusual lines and most of the action is laid in English society circles. The heroine is a girl possessed of beauty, brains, a cool head and an ambition for fame and riches which drives her like a ninety-horse-power motor.

Basil King is the author of "The City of Comrades," a recent Saturday Evening Post story of which will be brought to the Castle screen tomorrow. Tom Moore and Seena Owen are starred.

AT THE AUDITORIUM.

"The Microbe," today's attraction at the Auditorium, is a story of love, passion and intrigue which shows popular Viola Dana in a new light of cleverness, it is said. The young star plays the part of a wait of the East Side of New York city who is rescued and taken to his home by a noted author. The girl, known as The Microbe, grows passionately devoted to her benefactor, but finds that his friends—particularly his women friends—are against her. Overhearing them say that she will be his ruin, she leaves, and spends her time trying to make enough money to repay the author for his kindness to her. How she is the means of rekindling his lost ambition and bringing him to the top-most boughs of fame and happiness, makes the play a most interesting one.

"The Lightning Raiders," the serial starring the daring player, Pearl White, and which will close with next week's release, is on today as well as the Gaumont Weekly. The Pearl White serial will be followed by a new serial called "Elmo, the Mighty," featuring the well-known player, Elmo Lincoln, remembered for his work as Tarzan in "Tarzan of the Apes" and "The Romance of Tarzan." Tom Mix will be seen tomorrow in a sensational drama called "The Wilderness Trail." A Mack Bennett comedy and "Yod-a-li Movies" will also be on the bill.

All Her Friends Come to See What Tanlac Did For Mrs. Lynch.

"I wouldn't take a good size fortune for all the good Tanlac has done for me," said Mrs. A. F. Lynch, of 164 Central st., Galesburg, Ill., to a Tribune representative, recently.

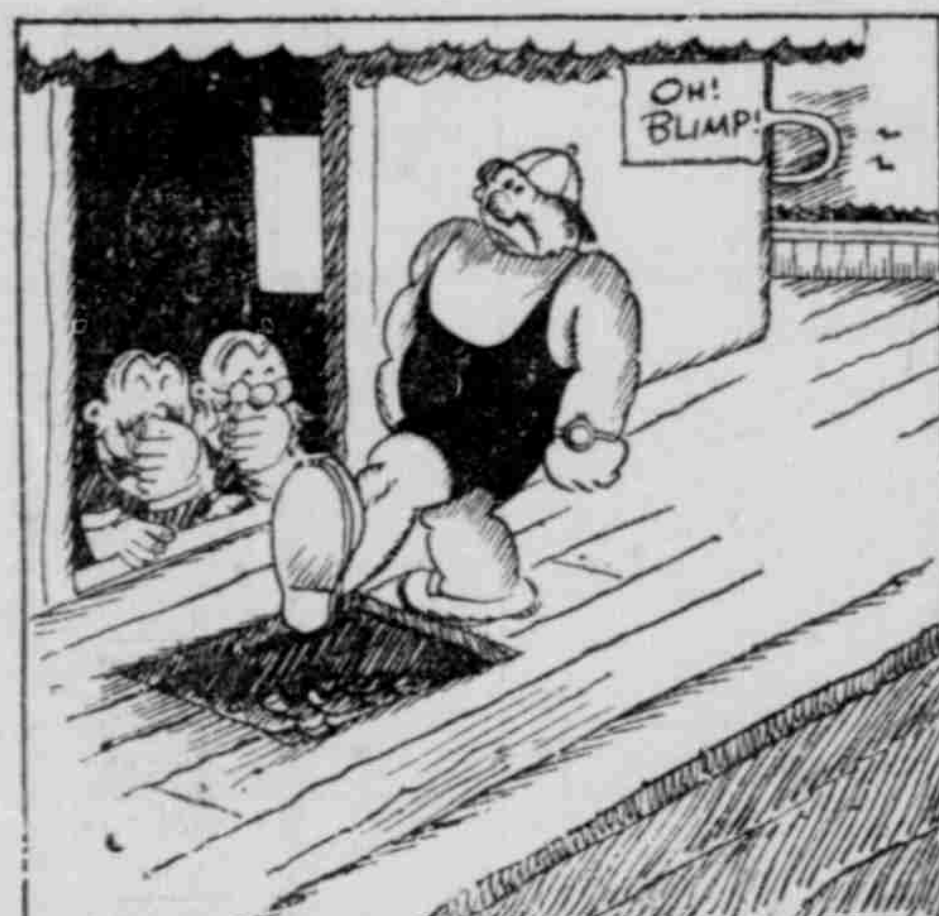

"I had been suffering with stomach trouble for about five years," continued Mrs. Lynch, "and sometimes it just looked like the least thing I ate would give me an awful attack of indigestion and I was told that if I didn't diet myself I was likely to die from one of these spells. I hadn't been able to eat a regular meal for several years and in all this time I suffered with cramps, dizzy spells and awful, throbbing headaches. I was often troubled with gas on my stomach and bloated up so badly I felt like I could hardly get my breath. Oh, it was an awful feeling. I tell you, and I hadn't been able to eat anything but light foods for so long it was very discouraging, to say nothing of the terrible pain I had to endure. Besides this stomach trouble, I also suffered a lot with my kidneys and was so constipated that my condition alarmed me at times, and try as I would, I just didn't seem able to find anything to relieve this trouble. My back hurt me so bad I could hardly stand it sometimes and I was never free from a dull aching pain across the small of my back. I finally got so run down in health I was just able to get around and that was about all, but when I suffered from those attacks of indigestion I was usually laid up for as much as a week and sometimes longer. I tried about everything that was recommended for my trouble, but nothing I took helped me and I was in so much pain most of the time I just felt like life was hardly worth living."

"Then I was lucky enough to try Tanlac and it has certainly done me a wonderful amount of good, because I can eat three meals a day now and am never troubled a particle with indigestion, bloating spells or headaches. My kidneys don't bother me now and I am not constipated any more, either, and am in such good condition I can do all my own housework with ease, even the washing. As a matter of fact, I am perfectly well in every way and so pleased over the way Tanlac has helped me that I talk about it all the time, and so do the neighbors, and people that have heard about my recovery come to see me to find out if all they hear is true and it doesn't take me long to convince them of the facts. I'm always glad to speak a good word for Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold in South Bend by the Central Drug Store, and in Mishawaka by the Red Cross Pharmacy. Adv.

The Davis Can-Server does away with the unsightly and unsanitary milk can

A New Way to Serve
Evaporated or Condensed
Milk at Your Table

Every economical housewife uses evaporated or condensed milk. But the problem is how to serve it appetizingly. Cans are unsightly, messy things that spoil a dainty get table. It is wasteful and troublesome to pour milk into a pitcher.

The Davis Can Server solves the problem. It is a handsomely nickel-plated container—rather like a small Colonial silver coffee pot in design—just large enough to hold a can.

All you do is to slip your can of evaporated or condensed milk into server, raise and close the spout and then close down the cover. Hold it by the handle, and see how evenly and smoothly the milk pours out!

It completely hides the ugly can, it keeps the milk absolutely clean and fresh, it is economical because not a drop is wasted—and it is so dainty that it beautifies any table.

Get one of these lovely, shining can-servers today and keep milk sterile to the last drop.

A story for these times—modern and uplifting—is "The City of Comrades" at the LaSalle today.

Written by Basil King for Saturday Evening Post readers, it has been secured for the screen at great expense. Tom Moore portrays the hero in this remarkable drama of love and adventure, which proves conclusively that "a man may be down, but he's never out."

Read by millions, it will gain new popularity through the medium of the screen and will add new laurels to the crown of its already popular star.

A fast-moving drama, with a whole town caught in its whirl of adventure is "When a Woman Strikes," tomorrow's feature.

"The Career of Katherine Bush," which is shown at the Castle today, is an adaptation of a popular story
by Elmer Glyn.
